

Abstract: Additives such as chemical elements, microstructures, time degradable molecules, micro oscillators (clocks) etc. are introduced into inks at production. The additives can be analyzed in samples thus giving source of and date of production. By varying additives over short time spans estimates of date of use may be obtained.